

Meet Bonggi and Dan

Hello.

My name is Bonggi and I am seven years old.

Come and play with me.

Don't be sad Bongji.

I am sad.

I love my granny.

Will I see my granny again?

Don't be sad, Bongji.

Granny is strong.

She will come home soon.

Look, there is granny.

She is not ill.

Her leg is better.

Don't be sad, Bonggi.

Now Bonggi is happy.

It is time to say goodnight.

It is time to go to bed.

Goodnight Granny. Goodnight Grandpa.

Goodnight Daddy. Goodnight.

Mommy reads a story about baby animals.

“Goodnight mommy,” says Suba.

Mommy sings and Suba goes to sleep.

The new boy.

Kago is a new boy in our class.

He is in a wheelchair.

He cannot walk.

We must be kind to him.

We must not stare.

We must all be a kind friend to Kago

Look what I can do!

We play in the garden.

Look what we can do.

Can you do that?

I like playing with my friends.

My friends like playing with me.

Do you like playing with your friends?

Let's play with clothes.

Let's play a clothes game.

This is fun.

Look, you are a policeman and you are a robber .

You are a nurse and I am a fairy.

My teeth

Look at my milk teeth all in a row.

I have 20 teeth that I can show.

I clean them every day and night.

That will keep them white, white, white.

A visit to the doctor

Sammy is at the doctor.

He is not sick.

He is having a check up.

The doctor is friendly.

She listens and looks.

She looks in his ears.

She listens to his heart.

The doctor says Sammy is a healthy boy.

Sammy and his mom are happy.

He is having a check up.

The doctor is friendly.

She listens and looks.

She looks in his ears.
